SENT ON TO GRAND JURY.

As was stated in the Gazette, Dr. Moore, the coroner, held an inquest yesterday afternoon at Demaine & Son's undertaking establishment in order to ascertain the facts in connection with the killing of Samuel Blakeley, colored, by James Lucas, also colored, on Althea's wharf, a short distance south of Prince street, about 10:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The jury was composed of the following: T. A. Fisher, foreman; R. E. Knight, J. F. Lowenbach, O. J. W. Stammers, L. O. Leatherland, and James New.

Eight witnesses were examined, but their testimony added nothing to the facts in the case which were given in yesterday's Gazette. All told of witnessing the difficulty which ended in the killing of Blakeley, but none could say positively which of the two men was the aggressor.

One of the witnesses, James Thomas, colored, testified that while the fight was in progress he heard some one in the crowd say "Put it to him, Jimmie." The testimony of Stella Pindexter, colored, who is thought to have been the innocent cause of the tragedy, threw no additional light on the case.

Shortly after four o'clock the jury returned the following verdict: "That the said Samuel Blakeley came to his death by wounds inflicted by a sharp instrument in the hands of James Lucas on the night of June 3, 1909, on what is known as Althea's wharf in this city."

Lucas was brought before the Police Court this morning, when the witnesses who testified before the coroner's jury were again placed upon the stand.

William Murdock, colored, who is employed by a circus company now exhibiting on the old fair ground, gave the most important testimony. He was standing close to the two darkies when the fight began. Murdock stated that he heard Blakeley say "You've got it in for me, but this is not the place." The dead man, witness said, had previously removed his coat and hat. Lucas asked Blakeley if he had anything—meaning a knife, razor or pistol, when Blakeley raising both arms, replied "No." They immediately started to fight. The conflict had raged about three minutes, when it was noticed that Blakeley was weakening and about to fall. Witness caught Blakeley and laid him down on the wharf. He lived about ten minutes.

The other colored persons who testified cast no light on the tragedy. Stella Pindexter, the young colored woman, in whom it is said, both Lucas and Blakeley were interested, was placed upon the stand. She was on an excursion steamer at the time, and did not witness the killing. She acknowledged she had been acquainted with Blakeley, and stated that the latter met her recently and exhibited a pistol, saying he intended to kill Lucas. [In her statement before the coroner's jury yesterday she failed to tell this.]

Justice Caxon asked Lucas if he desired to make a statement. He declined to say anything in reference to the tragedy, and was sent on to the grand jury.

SUMMONING TALESMEN.

City Sergeant Cox returned from Fairfax county yesterday where he had gone to summon fifty talesmen from which a jury is to be selected to try Richard Pines, colored, indicted for participation in the murder of Walter F. Schultz. Only about half the number were summoned, and the sergeant returned today with Eberhart Allison to summon the remainder.

RECEPTION TO MISS MOORE.—The Helpers Missionary Society last night gave a reception at the Second Presbyterian manse to Miss Clara Moore, who sails June 15th for Brazil to begin the work of a missionary. Miss Moore is well-known and will take with her the best wishes of her many friends.

See those Queen Quality Ankle Strap PUMPS, necktie bow. They are the newest. John A. Marshall & Bro., 422 King street.

ARLINGTON INSTITUTE.

The graduating class of Arlington Institute yesterday afternoon rendered in a most creditable manner Oliver Goldsmith's four-act comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer." The cast was as follows, and each character was well-sustained: Mr. Hardcastle, Eliza K. Douglas; Mrs. Hardcastle, Nellie S. Uhler; Tony Lumpkin, her son, Christina MacA. Kemper; Kate Hardcastle, Esther D. Burke; Constance Neville, niece to Mrs. Hardcastle, Esther H. Green; Juddford, maid, Sir Charles Marlow, Katharine J. Hutton; Young Chas. Marlow, his son, Beatrice E. Baldwin; George Hastings, Frankie L. Adams.

A number of the friends of the young ladies attended the rendition and greatly enjoyed the evening.

The closing exercises of the institute will be held on Wednesday evening next.

E. FREDERICK MILLS IN HOSPITAL.

Mr. E. Frederick Mills, 27 years old, of Alexandria, who had been missing from his home for two weeks and who, as stated yesterday, was found in the Maryland General Hospital, was taken to that institution recently suffering from a nervous breakdown. Mr. Mills said that for the last two weeks his mind had been a blank and that he knew nothing of what had transpired during that period. Acute stomach trouble, he said, caused him to go to that city to undergo treatment, but he said that after he had been received in the hospital he lost consciousness. He seemed surprised to learn that his relatives were uneasy about his absence.

AMUSEMENTS.

The closing night of the week of amusement finds those who seek this means of enjoyment face to face with two of the best shows ever given in this city. The vaudeville and motion pictures exhibited at the Surprise surpass anything of the kind yet seen, while the select pictures furnished by the Alexandria Amusement Company are highly appreciated by an immense crowd. Change of pictures at each house tonight. For an evening of fun go to either the Alexandria Amusement Company or the Surprise and you will not be disappointed.

NEW FREIGHT ROUTE.

A new freight route has been opened from Baltimore to Colonial Beach. For years all of the freight from Baltimore was carried by steambot to Alexandria and then placed on another steamer and carried back to Colonial Beach. By the new arrangement, which will go into effect next week, passengers and freight from Baltimore will go by the Pennsylvania Railroad to Pope's creek and thence by ferry across to Colonial Beach, making the time between the two places four hours, whereas it frequently took several days by steambot.

CHALK TALK.

All arrangements have been completed for the chalk talk of Mr. Clifford K. Berryman for the benefit of the Library building fund of the First Baptist Sunday school, to be given in the Young People's Building next Monday evening. Among the musical numbers to be rendered on the occasion will be a duet by Mrs. B. H. Smart and Mr. William O. Mills, of Washington, entitled "True Love is not for a Day." Mrs. Smart and Mr. Mills are the soloists of the First Congregational Church of Washington.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Catherine Miller, widow of Samuel Miller, died this morning at the residence of her son, Mr. George Miller, in Washington. She was a daughter of the late John L. Smith, of this city, and has a large circle of relatives and friends in Alexandria. She leaves three sons. William, the infant son of Mr. R. F. and Mrs. Cora Cockerell, died this morning at his parents' home, 704 north Columbus street.

George, the infant son of Mr. G. A. Krouse, died last night at his home, 206 King street.

TO DRILL TONIGHT.

The Alexandria Light Infantry will parade King street tonight about 8 o'clock, headed by the Reliance Drum Corps, in the interest of their excursion to Marshall Hall on Monday next. After the evening boat reaches Marshall Hall Monday the company, assisted by the Osceola Tribe of Red Men, will give a realistic reproduction of Custer's last fight, including "the burning of Custer at the stake," and this feature will be followed by a competitive drill in the pavilion for the company's gold medal, now held by Mr. Ohas. E. Dienelt.

POLICE COURT.

[Justice H. B. Caxon presiding.] The following cases were disposed of this morning: A white man, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $5.
Ida Smith, charged with drunken and disorderly conduct, was fined $5.
James Lucas, colored, charged with killing Samuel Blakeley, also colored, was sent on to the grand jury.

THE MARKET.

There was no change to note in the market this morning. The supply of country produce was about the same as that exhibited last Saturday, and prices had not varied materially. There was an abundant display of strawberries. They were selling as low as 5 cents a box.

Anselm Dietrich Meyerbeer was a great astronomer. Anyone looking at him, tho' would never take him for a star gazer. A small little man was with a paunch on him about the size of Roosevelt's game bag at the end of a good day's hunting. He resembled a walking brewery more than anything else in this world. Every time he felt lonesome he would go up to his "tell-her-see" and take a peep at Venus (you could always tell when he was looking at this particular Goddess, because he would blush something fearful). The other day he received a message from Mars ordering a supply of those irresistibly delicious Anti-Sauces, Ham, and other seasonable food products from the Auth Stand.
